Employment & Equality Tribunal Execution

I won my claim against my former employer, what happens next?

When the Tribunal has found in your favour, they will issue you with an Execution Order and a copy of the Decision made.

You will need to either deliver or send the Execution and a copy of the Decision to the appropriate Coroner. The Coroner to use is not the one for the area you live in but for the area where the Plaintiff is based. For details of which Coroner to approach, please see over.

What is an Execution?

An Execution is an enforceable order giving authority for the money to be claimed. Execution enables a judgment given in favour of a party, usually the claimant, to be enforced by that party and therefore gives the Coroner the power to visit the Defendants home or business to:

- Collect the money you are owed or;
- See whether the defendant has goods or land to the value of the money owed to you.

Is there a fee to pay?

Yes, there is a fee of £12.00 payable to the Coroner's office, you will need to contact the Coroner's office to find what payment methods they accept as each office has different options.

What happens when I have given the Coroner the Execution?

The Coroner will visit the defendant to collect the money either in full or with agreement with you by instalments. If the Coroner is unable to collect the money by either of the above methods, they will conduct enquiries to ascertain if there are sufficient assets to seize and sell by auction.

How long before I get my money?

Unfortunately, there is no simple answer to this question as every case is different, however the Coroner's office will make attempts to recover the debt and will advise you on their success.

What can I expect to get back?

The Coroner will attempt to obtain for you the Execution amount and fees paid, there is also a percentage-based fee added to the amount the defendant has to pay and this is the Coroners commission for recovering your monies.

Is there anything I can do to assist the Coroner?

Yes, please ensure any information you have is passed on even if it doesn't seem important to you. Also, if you have bank details for the defendant please pass them on as it is possible to arrest bank accounts if necessary.

Please remember having an Execution is no guarantee that the Coroner will be able to recover your money!
